FORGERY EXPOSED.

A few days ago the Post, of this city, published what purported to be an article copied from the Salem, (Mass.) Journal, which was represented as being a radical or Republican newspaper. This article bore on its face such evident marks of forgery that we marvelled so respectable a sheet as the Post should give it currency.

Of this article the Salem (Mass.) Register, which is a well known and influential Republican journal, says:

A COPPERHEAD TRICK.—We have received from Harrisburg, Penna., a slip cut from the Patriot and Union, a Democratic paper of that place, dated July 27th, containing what purports to be an "extract from a Radical organ at Salem, Massachusetts—the Journal"—in which Pennsylvania is stigmatized as a "poor, ignorant, stupid, old Dutch State, now pretty thoroughly 'Yankeized'" and it is stated that "Thaddeus Stevens, a native of Vermont, and a man true to his faith, holds the political elements of the State in the hollow of his hand," &c., &c., &c. The article is probably the concoction of some Copperhead brain for political effect. At any rate there is no paper called the Journal published in this city, and the article was never printed in any "Radical organ at Salem, Massachusetts," so far as our knowledge extends.

The forgery seems to have originated with the Patriot and Union at Harrisburg, which we do not expect, in that case, to acknowledge its own infamy, though fully detected and exposed. But we do expect the Post to set this matter right before its readers.

GEN. GRANT'S TESTIMONY.

The democrats caused Gen. Grant to be examined by the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives. What they wanted was to draw from him a statement that he approved the President's Policy. In this they signally failed. In reply to the interrogatories, the General stated, in substance, that he was present at a Cabinet meeting, when the President's Proclamation was first under consideration; that he was there upon invitation; that he heard the document read; that he could have expressed an opinion upon its positions, if he pleased, but being in the military service, he thought it prudent for him not to express any opinion whatever. When pressed further he stated that at the beginning he supposed the President's Policy was only provisional, until such time as Congress should assemble, when that body would rightfully take up the whole matter of Reconstruction, and settle the conditions thereof.

We cannot be mistaken in saying that this testimony was satisfactory to the Republicans, as indicating Gen. Grant's real position.

ELLSWORTH, KANSAS.

This town, which sprung into existence the present year, is now the commercial terminus of the Union Pacific Railway of the Kansas. The great flood in the Smoky Hill, in June last, overflowed it to the depth of about four feet. It then had some sixty frame buildings, including a number of stores, warehouses and mechanic shops. We have a letter from a resident business man there, an extract from which we give below:

ELLSWORTH, KAN., July 29, 1867.

We have moved the town about one and a half miles further west, on high ground, and everything wears a lively aspect—wagon trains coming in for loading for the markets of New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona, &c. As the growing trade of this country will soon assume vast proportions, it is very sure that those who go into the work at an early day must be reimbursed well for their outlay.

Your city produces a great many manufactured articles that will meet with ready sale out this way, and it is for the interest of your manufacturers and merchants to give the matter their attention. Chicago is making huge efforts for this trade; and if energy and spirit of liberality will reward them, it will not be lacking on their part.

THE people of Allegheny county are notorious throughout the Commonwealth for finding fault with the manner in which public affairs are managed at Harrisburg. They are entitled to six members of the House of Representatives. It is specially important the present year that six men of sterling character and capacity be selected to fill these six seats. So far as we can learn those sections of the population which have the deepest interest in this matter are giving it no concern whatever. It seems probable that nothing will be done to secure the right sort of candidates; that if the machine shall fortunately bring out proper men they will be elected; if the other sort, there will be some grumbling; but the final result will be the same. We are clearly of the opinion that if the people of Allegheny county passively allow the current to run on in this way, shame ought to stop them from grumbling whatever shape affairs may take in the Legislature.

THE impression prevails extensively that the Judiciary Committee of the House have in reality relinquished all intention of proceeding in the matter of the impeachment of the President, because of the inconsequential nature of the testimony so far taken, and because of irreconciliable differences of opinion among the republican members of the Committee as to the proper course to be recommended. All persons who carefully scanned the debate in the House on this matter, during the last day of the recent session, have probably formed a different conclusion. The inference would seem to be well grounded that a majority of the Committee are substantially agreed in opinion, that there is ample ground for impeachment, and that articles ought to be presented.

THE friends of Mr. George W. Woodward have withdrawn his name from the list of contestants for the Congressional nomination in the 12th district. The nomination was not conceded either as promptly or as gracefully as was expected. Mr. Stark, late State Senator, is now looking after his chances in the premises. He is, in all respects, an inferior man.

On the Republican side, Mr. Ketchum protests he does not want the nomination, but his friends insist it shall be given to him.

MORMONISM.—Reports have been published, as coming from Salt Lake City, to the effect that BRIGHAM YOUNG had quarreled with a number of his prominent Elders; that the split was so complete as necessarily to involve an entire disruption; that YOUNG was likely to abandon the city and endeaver to make a new start elsewhere, and much more to similar import. Late numbers of the Telegraph, YOUNG's organ, make no mention of these disturbances.

—The New York Tribune has an article on tenement houses, showing that 15,000 persons live wholly under ground; that 10,000 deaths occur every year from preventable diseases.

The Future of Salt Lake City.

Certainly no place this side of Chicago and St. Louis has a better future in store than this city. The development of the rich mines that encircle it within an area of four hundred miles will pour into its lap the glittering gold in exchange for the produce of the valleys of Utah, and encourage thrift and industry by bringing the reward to the very doors of the settlers. The means to acquire the comforts of life will be within the reach of all, and enable those who pursue agriculture and manufactures to obtain greater facilities to work with. Instead of the barter and trade system now so much in vogue, and which leaves the producers at the mercy of the traders, they can sell direct to the consumer, and obtain in exchange the gold with which the producers can always obtain what they need at a fair price. This place will be a kind of centre for the exchange of the mines and the produce of the farmers, and such manufactures as there are in Utah.

The mingling and commingling of the people will make them more cosmopolitan in their views; like their brethren of the Josephite branch in the States. It will break down the barriers of hate and prejudice, and inculcate a better and a Christian feeling among the people, and as they become more known to each other, they will see that they are not so much unlike after all. The "relic of barbarism" will die of its own weight, and fade away before the contact of intelligence and the demands of society, as well as the more rigid requirements of the national statutes. A bright future is looming up for the valleys of the mountains. Salt Lake will be the emporium. Every good man will endeavor to rob the future of the recollection of the past acts that may have produced bitterness of feeling on either side. A stern, unrelenting necessity makes it unavoidable for a general community among men in all the varied trades and business of life; and it may as well be accepted with good grace. Let the auspicious opening of these new mines be hailed as a harbinger of good, and let the fires of prejudice, whether local or religious, at once be quenched. We are to be thoroughly imbued with Americanizing influences in our next decade, and the traces of hate and bigotry that are now struggling for mastery, will then be forgotten.—Salt Lake Vidette.

The Tin Mines in Missouri.

The St. Louis Times gives some account of the recently reported deposits of tin in Missouri. Several thousand acres of land have recently been entered in Madison and Iron counties, upon which the owners hope to find tin—lands which have heretofore been considered as almost worthless because of their hilly, rocky character, and their remoteness from river and railroad communication. These lands have been entered and purchased by parties respectively from Detroit, St. Louis, Chicago, Wheeling and Pittsburgh, about in the order named as to quantity, U. K. Booth, of Detroit, taking the lead. The St. Louis parties have three Cornwall miners at work exploring with very favorable results.

The "tin fever" has assumed a contagious form, and everybody has the "attack." Farms which could not have been bought a week ago for $10 or $15 an acre, are now eagerly snapped up at $100 to $300 per acre; and if the investigation now being made results satisfactorily, some land we know of could not be purchased for $1,000 per acre. The Ironton Register says:

"Cornwall's glory has departed. The United States are no longer dependent upon the Old World for their saucepans; for in Southern Missouri there is tin enough to supply her kitchen a million years.

"Our people are fairly wild about tin. One half the population own tin mines, and the other half are trying to own some. Everybody has a piece of tin ore in his pocket, and there is scarcely a blacksmith shop in the country where ladles and pans have not been coated with it.

"Our towns are full of jauntily dressed individuals, who, having made fortunes in the eastern oil regions and other land speculations, are here looking after tin. Blow-pipes protrude from pockets as frequently as 'bowies' do in Arkansas. Farmers plow up green colored rock and unhitch the team, for they have found tin. Discussions on theological and political subjects all merge into tin. Everything is tin. Men drink to tin. Men dream of tin. There has been a tin wedding."

Miseries of Tight Lacing.

While we are growing very sensible indeed in the matter of dress, in the way of boots, balmoral skirts, warm stockings, and high necks, we are degenerating in some other matters quite as important. The corset is not a necessary part of a woman's wardrobe; and, alas! when a woman does begin to wear corsets, she will wear them too small, and will tug at the laces till the breadth becomes short, and she feels it necessary to refrain from anything like a comfortable meal. We say nothing against a well shaped corset, worn loosely, but there lies the difficulty. A loose corset injures the appearance, instead of improving it, and people wear corsets that they may have small waists. All we can say is don't squeeze whatever you do. You may have small waists, but you are exposing yourself to a dozen misfortunes, which is bad as a large waist. First, you will surely have dyspepsia, and grow yellow and cross, and unhappy; secondly, your hands will grow red; thirdly, your nose; fourthly, you will be unable to walk a mile at once; fifthly, dinner will be a misery; sixthly, your shoulder blade will increase in size and altitude; seventhly, your eyes will grow weak; eighthly, you will break down at thirty, or thereabout, and be a sickly old woman from that time forth. If these truths do not frighten women from tight corsets, perhaps the information that gentlemen do not admire what dress makers call a "pretty figure," so much as a natural one, may have some influence.—Northwestern Christian Advocate.

Women.

A writer from the Paris Exhibition has a few words on the women who are seen at the great fair. He says: England sends us several misses, whose specialty consists in letting themselves be courted by all the world, then finishing by marrying some rich and idiotic nobleman. Russia sends princesses, created and sent into the world for the express purpose of marrying artists. Spain sends guitar women, reported morose, and unworthy of their reputation. Here the eye rests upon an Italian, with black eyes and purple black hair, and coiffed with this graceful mezzao, which is one of the most ravishing head-dresses ever invented by a coquette. There is a Swede, with golden hair and complexion white as ivory, with indolent step and dreamy eyes. A little further, the blonde German, melancholy, to be consistent to national character. But among all, it is the Parisian who is the most feminine of all women. She is always invested with a charm peculiarly her own. She has eyes to see everything; she has ears made to hear everything; a mouth made to say everything; and in the meantime, the man the most rude would never dare to address her otherwise than respectfully. The Parisian is the woman the most dangerous and the most devoted, the most ardent and the most fickle, the most spirituelle, and the least instructed, in the entire world.

Beecher on Firemen.

Henry Ward Beecher says: I like to go past an engine house and see the firemen, even if they are rude, and if they do sometimes forget their manners, and shout out my name when I pass by them, as they did yesterday—I like to go past an engine house and see these rude sons of industry fondle and pet their engine. Sometimes I think it is their little god. How they rub it! How they clean it! How they put flowers upon it! Why? They know what it can do. They have seen it play. They have seen how well it performs in the hour of danger. It has stuff in it. It is a brave engine. They personify it, and give attributes to it. They love it. They talk to it. And they rub the brass and clean the leather, and keep everything all right about it. And I like to see it; because it is the radical quality that they like. It is its ability to perform. It is its real executive power.

—An Irishman, wishing to express his idea of the inexhaustible supply of fish in the Irish waters, said there were so many fish in the sea that if you were to take every fish you could catch out of it, he didn't think there would be one less in it!

MIDNIGHT.

FROM WASHINGTON.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, August 3, 1867.

GEN. SHERIDAN'S REMOVAL.

No order for the removal of Gen. Sheridan has yet been issued. Gentlemen usually well informed as to military affairs say Gen. Thomas will be his successor; that Gen. Hancock will succeed Gen. Thomas in the latter's present command, and General Sheridan be ordered to report to Lieut. Gen. Sherman.

CONFLICT OF AUTHORITY.

Marshal Goodloo, of the District of North Carolina, has reported to the Attorney General that the process of the United States Circuit Court, lately held by Chief Justice Chase, is obstructed by order of Lieut. Col. Frank, commanding the post at Wilmington. The ground is expressly mentioned in the order to be that in each of the cases obstructed the cause of action adjudicated by Judge Chase occurred between the 19th of December, 1860, and the 15th of May, 1865, General Sickles' order No. 108 having forbidden Judges to entertain any suits for the latter matters occurring between those dates. The Marshal supposes that General Sickles did not mean to include the Courts of the United States, but those of the States. Colonel Frank interprets the order differently.

Marshal Goodloo has suspended action until he learns from General Sickles, or receives instructions from Washington, being anxious to avoid a collision, but is firmly resolved on his duty. Chief Justice Chase is in Washington. This matter is regarded as a very grave event, although the impression prevails that the commandant at Wilmington has acted without the knowledge of Gen. Sickles, who is confidently expected to disapprove his action. The Marshal's course has been approved of at the Attorney General's Office, but no step shall be taken until time shall have elapsed for a report from the commanding General.

REGISTRATION IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

Registration is to commence immediately in South Carolina. In accordance with an order, dated August 1st, by General Sickles, Post Commanders are to be Superintendents of Registration within their respective commands, exercising, in addition to the functions specially conferred, general supervisory authority, looking to the faithful execution of the several reconstruction acts, and the maintenance of order. They will suspend registers for malfeasance in office, neglect of duty, or incompetency, and promptly report their action, with reasons therefor, to the Commanding General. The regulations are severe against persons endeavoring to thwart the right of registration, the offence being punishable by the Post Court. Offences perpetrated by white persons, disguised as blacks, are of frequent occurrence, therefore the attention of all authorities, civil and military, is directed to the device as one adopted to escape detection and to cast unmerited obloquy upon the colored people. In all cases where resort thereto shall be shown, the fact will be taken into consideration as aggravating the offence.

TURKEY.—Constantinople, July 22.—The following official dispatch has been received from Omar Pasha, dated, "Sphakia, July 18. Our soldiers, after two fights, have routed the insurgents and occupied the heights of Calikaratis and Spendo, and after securing possession of the mountains and villages of the same name, they proceeded across the plain of Askigo, where they effected their junction with the corps which came from Apocorance. All the villages of the eastern part of Sphakia, and lastly the whole district of Sphakia, excepting eight villages, which will easily be reduced, are now in the hands of the Imperial troops. The only resource left to the insurgents is to take refuge in the rocky and narrow valleys of the village of Samasia, where they can remain only a few days, after which there will be nothing left to them but complete submission. The insurgents who had taken refuge in two caverns at Pachtanos and Capsodusso, submitted to-day to the number of two hundred and fifty men and women, amongst whom were Capt. Annagotesti Papadakana, a member of the so-called Provisional Government, Capt. Manosdi, and several other chiefs. Their wives and the property which they had placed in the cavern, have been and will be religiously respected. Up to the present forty-seven barrels of gunpowder and twenty-five cans of other ammunition have been discovered there. The Third Division have effected their junction with the corps at Calikaritis. The number of muskets sent to the authorities amount to six thousand. Beni Pasha has subdued the district of Kissano. Col. Mustapha Bey has just cut to pieces the four hundred Hilenic volunteers lately disembarked in the island, together with their commander, Capt. Mietne, and two Greek officers. He also captured three hundred tons of biscuit, four hundred thousand coats and twelve thousand rifles.

Wanted the Funds.

A novel transaction occurred near the Rush House, Liberty street, on Friday evening, which created considerable excitement in that locality, all of which peaceably subsided into quietness without the loss of life or in fact any one being injured. An Englishman was standing near the hotel mentioned, and a woman was observed coming up the street with a basket on her arm. As she came past the Englishman stepped towards her and seized her by the throat. Without screaming or seeming greatly disconcerted by the assault, the woman thrust her hand into her basket, drew forth a small single barrelled pistol, and presenting it at her assailant, bade him stand off, which he promptly did, when the woman walked on towards the emigrant depot, on Grant street. The man followed her, and officers Gordon and Slivius, having come up to see what occasioned the excitement, followed the two and came up with them. In answer to inquiries the woman stated that the man was her husband, that some days ago they came hither from Mansfield, Ohio, and now her husband was determined to desert her, and was endeavoring by violence to get from her the money that she had brought and the checks for the baggage, which she held. The man justified himself by claiming his right to leave her, and asserted his claim to the money and the baggage. The officers succeeded in quieting both the parties, removed the loads from the pistol the woman had, and went away, the woman meanwhile quietly declaring that, "if that man didn't let her alone she'd kill him yet." Shortly afterwards the Englishman went into a tobacco store and requested them to take charge of a navy revolver, for fear he should shoot his wife with it. He then went back and took formal leave of his wife, telling her to keep everything—he couldn't stay with her. The next seen of the loving pair they were walking up street together, talking in a very affectionate manner. A mere "dodge" to get the checks.

He Was and Then He Was'nt.

On Thursday or Friday evening of last week a young woman was taken ill, or suddenly became insensible, whilst riding in a passenger car in the Borough of East Birmingham. The car was stopped and she was conveyed to the office of Dr. ——. She continued in an insensible state, and much commiseration was felt in her behalf, particularly as she seemed to be unknown. Restoratives were applied, everything possible done for her comfort, but seemingly of no avail. The circumstance created some excitement, and among others attracted to see the object of so much solicitation, as she had become, was a borough officer. Some ladies residing in the vicinity volunteered to render such service as might be required of them. After a considerable time had elapsed the young woman showed symptoms of reviving sensibility, and exclaimed at intervals "Oh! Fred! Fred!" and "Fred, come here!" The officer referred to, his name being "Fred," hearing this, made a closer inspection of the features of the patient, and upon a repetition of the exclamations said "Dat's me; I knows her!" and also assured the women in attendance that she was a "nice, decent girl," that he "knew her first rate." His interest in her behalf seemingly increased as she repeated "Fred! Fred! come here!" He would say "Yes, yes, I'se here!" Save the utterances stated, she gave no other signs of returning consciousness. The physician, in whose office she lay, in talking with some persons, in the hearing of "Fred," expressed his suspicions that the young woman was in a certain condition. At this announcement "Fred" became somewhat agitated. When next he heard "Fred, Fred, come here!" his reply was "Dat's not me! I knows noting about you!" and soon after Fred was not among those who remained in attendance upon the fair creature. She continued insensible during the night and for a good part of the next day. We did not learn her name, but understood she was from Butler county, and that a wedding has made all things straight. "Fred," the officer, however, was not the groom on the occasion.

Reported Murder at Fayette City—Suspected Parties Arrested.

John Evans, a resident of Greenfield, Washington county, disappeared suddenly from Fayette City, Fayette county, Friday night, under circumstances which lead to the conclusion that he was murdered. It appears that Evans had been drinking in the saloons in Fayette City, with two well known characters, John Britton and Wm. Flemming, of that place, and was last seen with them. About ten o'clock that night Rev. Mr. Reese heard a noise in front of his house, and on looking out of the window he saw two men fighting one. The three went over to the river bank together, and in a minute or two he heard a splash in the water. He halloed at them, when two of them ran away. Some time after he heard some one breaking the lock of a skiff, and then row up to the place where the fighting had occurred, and, after remaining there a few minutes, row away. The next morning Evans was missing, and upon search being made a hat, pair of shoes, and marks of blood were found on the wharf where the fight had taken place. The hat was recognized as the one worn by Evans. Britton and Fleming have been arrested. Evans was still missing at last accounts.

Newspaper Change.

Messrs. Bartley T. Campbell and William E. Mooney have purchased an interest in the Pittsburgh Leader, and will hereafter be associated with John W. Pittock, Esq., in its management. Mr. Campbell is not unknown to the reading community of this neighborhood. He has been more or less connected with the press of the city during the past three years, and sustains a high reputation as an easy, graceful, sprightly and thoughtful writer. As author of "Almost Lost," and other equally brilliant romances which have flashed from his gifted pen upon the world of light literature, his name has become familiar outside of local limits. Mr. Mooney, the other member of the new firm, is also a pleasing and graceful writer, and has been recognized with the Leader for some time past, editing its fashion and sporting columns. We are pleased to state that our friend Jas. Mills, Esq., whose rare abilities as a journalist are sufficiently known in this community, will continue to occupy the editorial chair. Under its new management the Leader cannot fail to improve, and we heartily wish the firm of John W. Pittock & Co. unlimited success.

A Big Bug in a New Place.

A lady residing in the suburbs of the city, one morning last week, arose from her bed with a very painful sensation in her left ear, and was at a loss to account for the feeling. She first imagined that she was to undergo the torture of a bealed ear, but as the pain neither increased nor diminished, she and her friends were lost to account for the suffering experienced. On Saturday, unable to longer bear the pain, she visited our distinguished surgeon Dr. E. S. Aborn, at his office, No. 134 Smithfield street, and made known her case to him. The skillful eye of the talented surgeon soon discovered that a foreign substance had found its way into the drum of her ear. A brief operation was performed and, to the intense delight of the lady, the cause of her suffering was removed, it proving to be a big garden bug nearly a quarter of an inch long, which, while she unconsciously slept, had taken lodging in the drum of the ear and there perished.

Rowland & Harris, House and Sign Painters, Allegheny.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to the business card of Messrs. Rowland & Harris, house and sign painters, grainers and glaziers, No. 64 Diamond, Allegheny city. These gentlemen are practical painters in every sense of the word and occupy a high place among the prominent firms of both cities. They take especial good care that all jobs entrusted to them are executed in such a manner as to add to their reputation, and by using the very best quality of paints, oils and varnishes, their work must prove durable and highly satisfactory. They contract for house painting and glazing at the most reasonable rates, and execute elaborate ornamental and decorative work or sign painting on equally liberal terms. The gentlemen composing this firm are eminently worthy of public patronage, and we bespeak for them a full share of the business within the gift of our readers.

Real Estate Agency.

Our well known and reliable fellow citizen, William A. Herron, Esq., late Clerk of Courts, has opened a Real Estate office at No. 89 Grant street, where he will attend to the buying and selling and general negotiation for real estate, Government and other securities. Mr. Herron carries with him into the business large practical experience, and his unusual acquaintance with men and places throughout our own and adjoining States renders him peculiarly fitted for the transactions pertaining to such an agency. We feel that there is no necessity for commending him to the patronage of our readers as he has ever sustained the highest reputation as a fair dealing, enterprising and careful citizen and business gentleman.

Death of Mr. Andrew Fulton.

Mr. Andrew Fulton, one of our oldest and most respected citizens, died yesterday, at his residence in this city, after a lingering illness, lasting through some four or five years. Perhaps the name of no other citizen of Pittsburgh is more widely known throughout the South and West than that of the deceased, he having been engaged almost from the infancy of our city in the manufacture of cast bells, of which business he was the pioneer west of the Allegheny mountains. He had amassed a large fortune and was recognized among our most prominent and successful citizens. Mr. Fulton had attained the age of sixty-six years. The notice of his funeral appears in our obituary column.

Fight in East Birmingham.

Sebastian Rudlinger made information before Justice J. P. Heisel, of East Birmingham, against P. Sodder, charging him with assault and battery, and for surety of of peace. He alleges that Sodder beat him with his first, kicked him, and threatened to kill him. Sodder works in a rolling mill in South Pittsburgh, and the difficulty arose from a conversation between the parties in regard to wages. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Sodder.

Going West.—Mr. John G. Brown, clerk of the Courts of Common Pleas and Quarter Sessions will leave for Iowa City to-morrow accompanied by his wife. He will be absent for several weeks.

The Recent Fire in Allegheny—Further Developments.

We published an account of a destructive fire in the Seventh ward, Allegheny, some ten days since, and at the same time noticed the arrest of Debold Flockensheir, charged with arson, who, after a hearing before Justice Arent, was discharged for want of sufficient evidence. It appears that between the time of Flockenshier's arrest and the hearing, he was confined in jail, and while there confessed his guilt to John Klien, one of the Irwin Station burglars. Anthony Weidman, Esq., was attorney for the prosecution in the arson case, and while the prisoner was in jail paid him a visit, at which time he met Klein, and on Thursday last Mr. W. received the following note:

MR. WEIDMAN:—It is my duty to tell you all about what Flockenschier told me while in my cell. I would have told you when you were here first, but the inside turnkey who brought us down stairs told me at the bars not to say anything about this man, for I might get the poor fellow into trouble. I will tell you all now. Come as soon as you can. JOHN KLEIN.

On receipt of the above Mr. W. visited Klein, who related what he says Flockenschier told him, in which he (Flockenschier) not only confessed his own guilt, but implicated a man named Oberdole, who is a night scavenger, and with whom Flockenchier had been working. The parties were arrested at Hildebrandt's near Spring Garden Run, and were locked up for a hearing, when a thorough investigation of the affair will take place. The testimony, coming from the source it does, would not justify us in making any comments, and we reserve them until the matter is more fully ventilated.

The District Attornies and the "Costs Question."

We made reference last week to the difference between District Attorney Duff and Assistant District Attorney Riddell, concerning the sharing of costs in forfeited recognizance cases, the former resisting the latter's claim (under the Act of Assembly creating the office of Assistant District Attorney) to costs, in the proportion of one-third. The question was argued, but as yet no decision has been rendered. In the meantime Col. Duff has determined to bring up the question as to the constitutionality of the act, and to this end on Saturday filed exceptions in a certain case. We copy from the record:

Commonwealth vs. George McCombs. } In the Court of Quarter Sessions of Allegheny county.

Indictment, false pretense. Verdict, not guilty, and prosecutor, Daniel Hilty, for costs.

And now to-wit: August 3d, 1867, comes Levi Bird Duff, District Attorney, and in his own behalf excepts to the taxation of costs in the above case, and shows the following exceptions:

1. To the allowance of only three dollars and thirty-three cents the District Attorney, instead of five dollars.
2. To the allowance of one dollar and sixty cents to the John W. Riddell, as Assistant District Attorney.
3. To the allowance of one-third of the fees of the District Attorney to said John W. Riddell.

An Aggravated Assault.

A difficulty occurred in Hardscrabble Sunday morning about one o'clock at the house of Isabella McKeon, in which William Healey appears as one of the principal actors. Healy, it will be remembered, was a few weeks since arrested and held to bail on a charge of adultery with Isabella McKeon, on an information made by his wife, but the matter was subsequently settled and the charge withdrawn. It appears from what we have been able to learn of the case, that Healey, at the time above referred to, in company with John Lynch, who is a tenant of Healey's, was at McKeon's, who is also a tenant and occupies a part of the same building. During the night Healey and Lynch got into a difficulty, and Lynch alleges that Healey struck him over the head with a heavy iron poker, and that William McKeon, who was also present, assisted Healey in the assault. His head was badly cut and he was otherwise considerably bruised and beaten. He further alleges that Isabella McKeon handed Healey the poker with which he struck him and threatened to kill him. Lynch appeared before Mayor McCarthy and made information against Healey and William McKeon for assault and battery with intent to kill, and against Isabella McKeon for surety of the peace. The parties were arrested and held to bail for a hearing to-day.

Arrested at the Depot.

A telegraphic dispatch was received Friday night from Harrisburg, by officer Fox, at the Union Depot, requesting the arrest of John Frey, a young man who had taken the train in that city for Pittsburgh, he being charged with larceny. The train arrived at two o'clock Saturday morning, and the officer found his game in charge of a Sergeant of the United States army, having enlisted in the army. The Sergeant, who was a German, refused to give up the prisoner, but after considerable trouble was persuaded to let him go. Young Frey was taken to the lock-up, where he will remain until to-day, officer Fox having notified the Harrisburg officers of his success. The prisoner is about seventeen years of age, and enlisted in the Regular Service on Wednesday last. From his statement it appears that he left his home in Glenrock, York county, in April last, taking with him forty dollars of his father's money. He does not know the immediate cause of his arrest, or at whose instance, asserting positively that he did not "touch a thing" in Harrisburg. He appears to take his arrest philosophically.

A Grand Drunk.

Michael Hughes, Mrs. Hughes, his wife, and John Donalson, congregated with several other parties in a house in the rear of the Dispatch building and were having a "jolly good time to themselves in the way of a general drunk. They were progressing finely with their undertaking, and had arrived at that state of drunkenness when all discretion is lost, and were "making night hideous with their drunken brawls," when they were slightly interrupted by the appearance of one of the "Guardians of the Night," who kindly took them in charge and lodged them safely in the lock-up. There they remained until yesterday morning, when, after a hearing, Michael Hughes and John Donalson were each fined fifteen dollars and costs, and the others discharged. Michael, during the progress of the hearing, stoutly denied being drunk, but as soon as sentence had been passed upon him, recollected definitely that the whole party were drunk.

Where is He?

Some two weeks since one Peter Whisklin was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, and after a hearing, was mulcted to the amount of twenty-five dollars, and not having the "stamps" was sent to jail for thirty days. Subsequent to his committal a charge of malicious mischief was lodged against him, and on Monday of last week he was taken out of jail to the magistrate's office, before whom the information was made, for a hearing. Whether he had a hearing or not we are unable to say, as Peter has not been heard from since. We are informed, however, that he quietly took his departure from the place of confinement through a livery stable, which has, on former occasions, afforded an exit to prisoners, too loosely guarded. We would recommend that those windows be closed.

Pillaging a Cellar.

About six o'clock on Saturday morning an unusual noise was heard in the cellar of a house occupied by Mrs. Minnis, 178 Fourth street, and a member of the family going to the front door to see what was wrong, observed four boys running from the house. A policeman was notified, and succeeded in capturing one of the young scamps, who gave his name as McManaman, and says he resides on Mulberry alley, near Factory street, in the Ninth ward. He gave the names of his confederates as Leonard Rust, Charles Kaylor, and John Kearney. Rust and Kaylor, he says, reside on Webster street, and Kearney on Mulberry alley. McManaman was locked up, and the officers are on the look-out for the others. The boys were looking for something good to eat.

Interfering with an Officer.

On Saturday night one of the night watch arrested John Reed, a negro, who was drunk and disorderly, and when attempting to take him to the lock-up Jacob Bigerly interfered and attempted to rescue the prisoner. The officer succeeded in taking the negro to the watch house, and Bigerly persisted in his attempt to release him, and followed them into the Captain's office, where he was taken charge of and locked up with his colored friend. They had a hearing yesterday morning, when Reed was fined ten dollars and costs and his friend Bigerly was mulcted in the sum of twenty-five dollars and costs. He will probably have sense enough to attend to his own business hereafter, and not interfere with officers when in discharge of their duties.

A Flourishing College.

Lafayette College, at Easton in this State, bids fair to become a flourishing institution of learning. It has recently been blessed with a permanent invested endowment of $200,000, and it is now proposed to solicit its friends to increase the endowment to $400,000. President Cattell, at the late commencement, said that he had already received subscriptions to the amount of $100,-000. Of this sum William Adamson, Esq., of this city, subscribed $10,000; Thomas Beaver, of Danville, $10,000; and A. Pardee, of Hazleton, $80,000. This makes Mr. Pardee's donation $200,000, as he contributed $120,000 of the $200,000 endowment. There is no doubt that the endowment will be raised to $400,000.

Surety of the Peace.

Hannah Denison appeared before Alderman Lynch and made information against Margaret Avery, for surety of the peace. She alleges that the defendant threatened to do her bodily harm, and also threatened her family.

James Denison also appeared before the same officer and made the same charge against William Avery, alleging that Avery threatened to whip him before he retired to bed. The parties reside on Foster's alley, and we suppose are neighbors, and the above suits are the result of a family quarrel. Warrants were issued in both cases.

Burglary.—The boarding house kept by Mrs. Catharine Martin, at No. 83 Fifth street, was burglariously entered on Saturday night and several small sums of money taken from the boarders. One gentleman lost $10.50 and another $4.50. The burglar entered at the front door by means of a key.

Gamblers on the Qui Vive.

In writing for Saturday's paper under the caption of "Pittsburgh Gamblers," we were ignorant of the fact that the "fraternity" were at that particular time exercised concerning the probability of several of their number being prosecuted. This was the cause of the assemblage at the corner of Fifth and Smithfield, noticing which suggested to us the item we wrote, judging that "business" must be dull when 'carders' would thus congregate. During that day (Friday) they and their friends had been industrious in endeavoring to forestall or prevent information being made by a certain party, a woman, we believe, whose husband had been "fleeced" out of some two or three thousand dollars. A "descent" (after the manner of Harry Weaver's time) they had been advised was in contemplation, and hence were put on their guard for such emergency. A certain magistrate, who it was understood had entertained the complaint, was waited upon by some of the "friends," among them a brother magistrate, and an up-town politician, with a view to ascertain exactly how the matter stood, whether complaint had really been made, by whom, and the nature of it. Whether they obtained any definite information we cannot say, but as "friends" of those whose trepidation they desired to quiet, they volunteered to counsel that nothing should be done in the matter, that all would be made right, &c. We shall see.

Playing Thief.—A well known merchant on Fifth street, on Saturday, made an effort to discover how vigilant his clerk was in his absence. He donned new clothing, and with the aid of a pair "Dundreary" whiskers and monstrous moustache succeeded in effectually disguising himself. He entered the store and practised kleptomania while going through the routine of a purchase till he had his capacious pockets filled with fancy articles. He was about moving off when a policeman, who had been sent for by the clerk, arrested the proprietor, taking him for a thief. The mask was soon thrown off, the clerk complimented for his cleverness and the policeman treated for his trouble.

Success Attend Him.—The amusement loving community will be extremely sorry to learn of the departure from this city, for new fields of operation, of Mr. John M. Burke, the former manager of the Academy of Music. This gentleman made his advent into this city with Manager Hess, and rapidly succeeded in surrounding himself with hosts of friends, who regret exceedingly that he has determined to sunder his connection with the amusements of the city. He carries with him our best wishes for his future welfare, and we trust soon to have the pleasure of again welcoming him to our midst.

Subscribe Early.—No enterprise has of late been more generously seconded by capitalists than the new Grocery and Provision Company of Allegheny City. The stock has nearly all been taken, and those who desire making a sure, safe and highly profitable investment should call at once and subscribe for some of the remaining shares, at No. 26 Federal street, where the books are still open. With such shrewd, careful and enterprising business gentlemen at the head of the enterprise as Messrs. John A. McGraw and J. P. Israel, the project must necessarily succeed.

Bankruptcy Cases.—During the month of July there were filed fifty-two petitions for adjudication in bankruptcy. Of this number fourteen were involuntary, filed by creditors, and thirty-eight voluntary. From Allegheny county there were thirteen petitions, Luzerne ten, Washington five, Venango three, Northumberland three, Lycoming three, Crawford two, Tioga two, Armstrong, Centre, Dauphin, Mercer, Sullivan, Erie, Cambria, Jefferson and Indiana, one each.

A Warning to Teamsters.—Joseph Fullwood, a conductor on the Citizens Passenger Railway, made information before Alderman Donaldson, against James Booth, a teamster, for obstructing his car. Booth was driving his team on the track in front of the car, and when requested to "turn out" refused to do so. He was arrested and on payment of the costs, and promising to "sin no more" in that respect, was allowed to "depart in peace."

Not Temporary.—Many will be rejoiced to learn that Dr. E. S. Aborn, the distinguished surgeon of the ear, eye, throat and organs of the chest, has concluded to make Pittsburgh his final headquarters, and at his office, No. 134 Smithfield street, is permanently located. Pittsburgh can now boast of the possession of a surgeon and physician who has not a superior in America.

False Pretense.—Levi Israel made information before Alderman Thomas against Ditreich Formhill for false pretenses. The prosecutor alleges that the defendant did obtain from him $3.65 worth of Dambico, or Sea Grass, under false and fraudulent representations. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the accused.

Officer John Fox, one of the oldest and most reliable in the city, received injuries a few days since, by a fall, while attending to his duties at the Union Depot, on Liberty street. Although severely injured, we are glad to learn that he is recovering and will soon be able to resume his duties.

No Blame.—At a meeting of the County Prison Board, on Saturday, after full investigation, Warden White was fully exonerated from any blame in the matter of the escape of Lucas, the horse-thief, noticed in Saturday's GAZETTE.

For Trial.—Justice Barker, of South Pittsburgh, on Saturday, finally committed for trial Hugh Feeley and William Fitzgerald, charged with robbing William Price on the Monongahela Suspension bridge on the night of the 22d of July.

Recovering.—Mary J. Gormly, one of the four girls injured in the accident at Marvin's cracker bakery, and reported as in a critical condition, we are happy to learn is considered out of danger by the attending physicians.

New Trial.—In the District Court, Saturday, Judge Williams rendered an opinion in the case of Baldinger vs. Knox—action for slander—setting aside the verdict and awarding a new trial.

Fined.—Bridget Snyder was arraigned before Alderman Morrow, Saturday, charged with selling berries from an illegal measure, and after a hearing was fined five dollars and costs.

Serious Accident.

On Saturday afternoon, as some carpenters were engaged in erecting a trestle work leading from the coalpits of Dickson Stewart & Co., near Brinton's station, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, the scaffolding gave way, precipitating them to the ground. A man named Stewart had both of his legs broken and was otherwise injured, while another, whose name we could not learn, had his right leg broken above the knee and was badly bruised about the body. Drs. Hamilton and Irish attended the wounded men, and at last accounts they were considered out of danger.

WHAT WE DRINK.

Our attention has been called to an error in the article on this subject, which appeared in our paper a few days since. We stated that the water pipe xtended above Mechanic street bridge, ut are informed that it merely is carried into the river, leaving Butcher's Run, with its numerous slaughter houses, the Fifth and Ninth wards, Two Mile Run, with all its contents, the hospitals, uncounted refineries and tanneries, and Lawrenceville, all above the pipe which receives and conveys to us our drink. How pure it must be let any one judge. We have also been informed that eighty thousand dollars will extend the water pipe above Hare's Island, so as to give us water comparatively pure—a sum very small to accomplish a result so desirable and so closely connected with the happiness, health and life of all our citizens. We have also been told that there are some persons who bring water from other places into our city to avoid drinking the Allegheny water. But we are also told that the city is healthy. If we had better water might it not be more so? Now it is so in spite of what we drink; and if no change is made and our river becomes low, we may be afflicted with a scourge as fearful as the plague. Until some change is made the injurious effects may in a great measure be avoided by boiling the water, or by dissolving very small quantities of alum into it, or by other means.

AFFAIRS IN TENNESSEE.

GOV. BROWNLOW has never excited our admiration; perhaps because we have only known him by such report as he has made of himself and as has been made of him by his enemies. Some persons may infer that such materials are amply sufficient to the formation of a just judgment. We think not. Public men are not always what they seem to be, even in the manifestations they give of themselves. Frequently they have one or more qualities in excess, which are so constantly obtruded as to obscure all other traits, and to give a definite but erroneous impression of character. LUTHER and KNOX, GARRISON, PARKER and PHILLIPS may be taken as specimens of this class of individuals. In such men there are phases of temperament and judgment which can be truly known only upon personal acquaintance, and which greatly modify or limit all conclusions deduced from public observation and report. No matter how stoutly LUTHER thundered against the Pope, or with what coarseness of vituperation he may have confounded his assailants, he was at bottom a right genial and jovial man, delighting, indeed, in a mug of ale, but rejoicing more in the refined companionship of cultivated men and women, in the love of children, in acts of gentleness and generosity to the poor, oppressed and afflicted. GARRISON was reputed a son of thunder. There was a vehemence in his utterances that blistered whatever they touched. The popular idea was that his heart was a fountain of vitriol. In opposition to this estimate, those personally intimate with him, constantly bore testimony that he among the most amiable and least self-asserting of men. We suspect that Mr. BROWNLOW falls into this same category. Organized of apparently contradictory elements, he is manifestly endowed with qualities which fit him for leadership in a period of profound ferment and agitation, and at the same time furnished with qualities which impart a charm to his personal intercourse.

For a quarter of a century he has been a conspicuous figure in Tennessee; so bulky as not to be overlooked, and so peculiar as not to be mistaken for any other. His public life has been a perpetual embroilment. He seemed to be comfortable only in a row. Irascible, pugnacious and trenchant, he poured his wrath on tens of thousands. When the Rebellion came he found his genuine sphere. A man more equable, and less ready for a fray, would have succumbed or been swept away. His peculiar traits enabled him to withstand every assault, and to triumph over all opposition. He became so identified with the national cause that his victories were its victories; and he has made for himself in history a record as unique as it will be enduring.

It has been common for the Conservatives to stigmatise BROWNLOW's administration as a despotism. His vigor furnished the pretext. But when we consider the circumstances by which he has been surrounded, this estimate will be found insufficient. A large proportion of the white inhabitants of Tennessee were rebels. It was not through want of efforts on their part that the State was not carried as absolutely into the Rebellion as South Carolina. Thousands of them actually entered the Confederate armies. Thousands more who stayed at home, by reason of age or infirmities were as bitter as those who took up arms against the government. As soon as the war was over the rebel soldiers came back, and with the rebels who had remained at home, resolved to control the political affairs of the State. They held firmly to the democratic doctrine that treason wrought no forfeitures; that the moment they were so beaten as to be compelled to cease fighting, all their rights, of whatever kind, were as really their's as though they had always been loyal and obedient to the laws. They regained possession of their property; and meant to enter upon and hold all the offices of trust and profit. The enfranchisement of the blacks stood in their way for one thing, and their own disfranchisement for another.

For weeks past they have been endeavoring to hold the annual election in defiance of the Constitution and laws of the State. They meant to vote whether they had a legal right to or not; and they resolved to prevent as many black men from voting as they could, no matter how indisputable their right to the ballot. By a system of terrorism they at first hoped to accomplish their design. They were met by a resolution as invincible as their own, and before which they quailed. Then they attempted to draw the President on to take their part, and by military power to set aside the legal impediments that obstructed their way. Doubtless it would have afforded the President solid satisfaction to have yielded to these solicitations; but he did not dare add that last feather's weight of provocation to a loyal Congress and people already incensed to the last degree of endurance.

The course pursued by the Tennessee rebels during the last year furnishes a complete justification of the comparative proscription under which they rest. Of right, participation in the government ought to be confined to those men who are loyal to it. How long the proscription of the disloyal ought to be continued must depend upon their conduct. Doubtless, it is desirable, that all citizens should be allowed a share in the management of public affairs. But if they see fit by criminal conduct to disqualify themselves, upon their own shoulders must rest the blame. The day will come, we trust, when all disabilities, growing out of the war, will cease—when the distinction of loyal and disloyal will be known no more. But a General Amnesty, in order to be beneficial, must have respect as well to the frame of mind in which they are for whose benefit it is intended, as to the disposition of the government itself. When the Southern people shall accept the situation, again bear true allegiance to the Union, and acknowledge the equal rights of all their fellow citizens, of whatever race or section, the sooner an act of oblivion shall cancel and cover their disloyalty the better for the whole country.

THE FALL TRADE.

A general expectation seems to be indulged in financial and commercial circles throughout the country, that Trade the approaching Fall, will be large and prosperous. This anticipation is based primarily on the abundance of the crops, which seem to guaranty means for the payment of unusual purchases. To a certain extent, these calculations are not unsound. If they shall be so conducted as to conduce to circumspection and prudence, beneficial consequences will surely flow from them. But if they shall be so managed as to beget a spirit of speculation and extravagance, the results will be disastrous.

The crops are uncommonly good in all parts of the United States. So are the crops in Europe. These two facts have a significance when considered separately and apart from each other. They have, also, a significance when considered in connection. Such abundance as is vouchsafed to the people of this country the current year, would imply, even in the face of considerable scarcity abroad, a decided reduction in prices here; in conjunction with full harvests in most, if not all, the countries of Europe, the falling away in prices cannot fail to be more strongly marked.

Gold has become an article of commerce; or, rather, an article for speculating in. It has ceased temporarily to be as absolutely as it was a measure of the value of other commodities. Never exact as a criterion of value, it can now scarcely be rated as a criterion at all, in the intrinsic sense. About as accurate a measure as the financial emergency has left us is Flour. This is recognized to such a degree that in some instances, by mutual consent of owners and employes, wages are graduated accordingly as the price of that commodity goes up or down. With the full knowledge that Flour has materially receded in price, and with every reason to believe that it will go much lower still, it would seem to be absurd, on this basis, to endeavor to superinduce a new era of speculation, and to advance the market value of all other goods than provisions. Upon a close analysis it is constantly found that the value of iron, cloth, and the like, depends mainly on the agricultural productions consumed in manufacturing them, either as component material or as sustenance for workmen and their families. This rule is so constant and undeniable that wise men cannot soberly imagine it is now to be set aside for a season for the special accommodation of speculators.

Traffic, in this country especially, is full of peril to all who are concerned therein. In New York the common estimate is that ninety-eight out of every one hundred merchants become bankrupt. No stronger evidence need be adduced of the want of forecast and prudence on the part of the class to which they belong. We may err, but we cannot resist the conviction that all calculations of increased prices in other departments, predicated on the abundance and cheapness of farm products, must necessarily be misleading and injurious. Prices generally must go down, instead of up, and they ought to go down in consideration of the plentifulness of provisions.

A healthy business may be done this fall, upon safe estimates. But whoever lays himself out in anticipation of farther inflation will be pretty certain to encounter loss.

While these observations are of generaly applicability they are of the utmost utility in Pittsburgh. Our pre-eminence as a manufacturing city can only be maintained by a judicious husbanding of the advantages of cheap fuel and the aggregation of skilled workmen. Our manufacturers are pressed by sharp competition, and whatever prudence they can command is requisite to enable them to surmount the embarrassments of their present situation.

UNION PACIFIC RAILWAY, E. D.

[Special Correspondence Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ALLEGHENY CITY, July 31, 1867.

ARIZONA.

This large territory, the area of which is 120,912 square miles, is bounded on the north by Utah, on the east by New Mexico, on the west by California, and on the south by Sonora, one of the most valuable of the States of Mexico. Its northern line is on the same parallel as the southern line of Kansas, 37 degrees; its southwestern corner, on the Colorado river at Fort Yuma, about forty miles above tide, is in latitude 32 degrees 30 minutes.

From the Rio Grande at Albuquerque, where it is intended that this road shall cross that river, to the eastern boundary of Arizona in latitude 35 degrees, the distance is about 120 miles. From the river to the summit of the Sierra Madre range is about ninety miles, up which the ascent is said to be gentle. On the western side the country descends, first to the table lands of Central Arizona, and thence to the Colorado and the Gulf of California, a distance of four to five hundred miles.

Entering Arizona a little north of the middle of the eastern boundary, the route runs directly through the midst of the territory, passing by the town of Prescott, the capital, thence in the same general direction, down the valley of Williams' river to its mouth in latitude thirty-four degrees thirty minutes. To this point the Colorado affords good steamboat navigation at nearly all seasons from the head of the Gulf of California.

Between the point where the route enters the territory to the town of Prescott, a distance of about 250 miles, the country has a considerable elevation, is well watered, and has a healthy and delicious climate. This is the region spoken of by Hon. Richard McCormick, Secretary of the Territory, in the following extracts from a valuable paper which he prepared for Hall's "Guide to the Great West."

"Yavapai county embraces a part of Orizona as yet unknown to map-makers, and in which the territorial officers arrived hard upon the heels of the first white inhabitants. Until 1863, saving for a short distance above the Gila, it was, even to the daring trapper and the adventurous gold seeker, a terra incognito, although one of the richest mineral, agricultural, grazing and timber divisions of the Territory, and abundantly supplied with game. Yavapai county is nearly as large as the State of New York. The Verde and Salina rivers, tributaries of the Gila, which run [southwardly] through its centre, abound in evidences of a former civilization. Here are the most extensive and impressive ruins to be found in the Territory—relics of cities, of aqueducts, acquias and canals, of mining and farming operations, and of other employments indicating an industrious and enterprising people. Mr. Bartlett refers to these ruins as traditionally reported to him, to show the extent of the agricultural population formerly supported here, as well as to furnish an argument to sustain the opinion that this is one of the most desirable positions for an agricultural settlement of any between the Rio Grande and the Colorado. * * * * * *

"In timber lands Yavapai county exceeds all others in the territory. Beginning some miles south of Prescott, and running north of the San Francisco Mountain, is a forest of yellow pine interspersed with oak, sufficient to supply all the timber for building material, for mining and for fuel that can be required for a large population.

"Prescott, the capital, is in the heart of a mining district second, in my judgment, to none upon the Pacific coast. The surface ores of thirty mines of gold and silver and copper, which I had assayed in San Francisco, were pronounced equal to any surface ores ever tested by the metallurgists, who are among the most skillful and experienced in the city; and so far as ore has been had from a depth, it fully sustains its reputation. The veins are large and boldly defined, and the ores are of varied classes, usually such as to be readily and inexpensively worked, while the facilities for working them are of a superior order. At the ledges is an abundant supply of wood and water; near at hand are grazing and farming lands, and roads may be opened in any direction without great cost. The altitude is so great that the temperature is never oppressively warm; the nights, even in midsummer, are refreshingly cool and bracing."

Such is the district through the midst of which the Union Pacific Railway will run for two-thirds of its way across the Territory of Arizona—the very kind of country to furnish the largest amount of local trade in proportion to its area and population, as well as to add most rapidly to the general wealth of the nation. Would we pay off our national debt and return to a metallic currency, there is nothing that we can do to bring about those ends so effective as to open a highway into this now remote and almost inaccessible national treasury.

From Prescott to the western boundary of the Territory, which is the Colorado river, the line of the road will follow the valley of the Williams river, one of the principal tributaries of the Colorada, which has its source a few miles west of that town. Of this river Mr. M'Cormick says:

"Ascending the Colorado, the first point of interest is Williams' Fork. It is the largest tributary of the Colorado, and has its rise in the interior country almost as far east as Prescott. It is not navigable, but usually has a good body of water. Some of the richest copper mines in the territory are on its banks, and have already been extensively and profitably worked." Several silver mines are marked on the National maps in the valley of this river. At its mouth is the town of Aubry, said to be in a fine location for a city. This is likely to be the principal city of Arizona. It is a very important point on the line of this road, for here the first navigable water on the Pacific side is reached; and from this point a large trade, both down and up the river, and indeed with the entire Pacific coast, may be established in advance of the road reaching its ultimate destination—San Francisco. The most western steamboat navigation on the Atlantic side of the continent, on this line, it is at Kansas City; the most eastern on the Pacific side is at Aubry. But even after the road shall be completed Aubry will continue to be an important commercial centre, and pour upon this road from that great river an enormous amount of business; for the entire country above is surpassingly rich in mines of gold and silver, especially the latter, and the river is navigable for hundreds of miles during part of the year.

I have thus traced the route of the Union Pacific Railway through the Territory of Arizona, on a line which the company believe to be the most practicable, and the one which will enable them to render accessible the best and richest portion of the great region lying between the Mississippi and the Pacific coast. While in some measure they run round the tremendous mountain system of the interior of the continent, they bear as close to it as they can. They run very little below the 35th parallel, which is only two degrees south of the southern line of Kansas.

CALIFORNIA.

At Aubry, as before remarked, the line of the road enters the State of California. Thence its course is westward until it turns the southern extremity of the Sierra Nevada Range, and thence northwest all the way up the great valley of Southern California to the Bay of San Francisco, a distance of between four and five hundred miles.

This is known to be one of the finest valleys on the continent. The Sierra Nevada bounds it on the northeast, the Coast Range on the southwest—the mountains, the valley and the coast all running in parallel lines. The average width of this valley is not much less than one hundred miles; and although it has not yet been twenty years in the possession of people who did anything to develope its resources, and although it is cut off from the ocean by the Coast Range of mountains, and destitute of any navigable rivers, except for a short distance southeast of the Bay of San Francisco, it is already renowned throughout the world for its extraordinary productiveness—, its wheat, its grapes and many other things. Its only commercial avenues are wagon roads, yet within a year bread made from wheat which grew in that valley has been on our tables here in Pittsburgh.

Of Southern California as a grape producing country, Mr. Hittel remarks:

"California vineyards produce ordinarily twice as much as the vineyards of any other grape district, if general report be true. The grape crop never fails as it does in every other country. Vineyards in every other country require more labor, for here the vine is not trained to a stake, but stands alone."

Mr. Hall remarks: "The grape region extends from the southern boundary a distance of 535 miles north, with an average breadth from east to west of about 100 miles." This area extends a considerable distance up the Sacramento river, which flows southward through the same valley, and breaks through the coast range almost directly east of San Francisco.

The large county of Los Angelos, which is the second county that our road reaches after entering the State, is the principal vine growing district in California. In 1864 it had 3,570,000 vines. A California paper of 1865 mentions a vine growing at Oroville, on the western slope of the Sierra Nevada, which was planted in 1859, which has grown straight and almost of a uniform size, and measured thirteen inches in circumference for ten feet from the ground. Its yield of fruit that year was estimated at eight hundred pounds.

The quicksilver mines of California extend from Mendocino county, north of San Francisco, along the Coast Range, all the way to the Colorado river, and on the northeastern slope; consequently this road will run near to them for a distance of over four hundred miles. This is an interest the extent and importance of which it is yet impossible to estimate, as these mines have been but imperfectly developed thus far.

Such is the region through which the line of this road will run from Aubry, on the Colorado, to San Francisco. When this great valley shall be occupied—as it soon would be were this road made through it—no part of the route, not even Kansas, would furnish more local business both in freight and passengers.

Pleasant Position—A Man Sewed up in a Sack Sees a Bull Coming After Him and Rolls Away.

Three or four citizens of Peekskill made a very narrow escape from a perilous situation a few days ago. They belonged to the sporting persuasion, and wishing to know exactly what time could be made by a man sewed up in a sack, and to secure a basis of safe betting, they repaired to a distant field of a wealthy citizen, and, just as they had got a young man sewed up in a sack, they heard a rumbling sound in the distance. They took it for distant thunder; but looking westward, one of them saw dust and turf flying high in the air, as if lifted by a tempest; and in a moment more a mad bull, roaring and pawing the sod, came tearing down in the direction of the company of sports. One of the men, tall, well-formed, athletic and spunky, seized a rail and went out to meet the adversary; another took to his heels and made the tallest time on record; another ascended the nearest tree, our informant says, feet foremost, and the poor fellow sewed up in the sack, partaking of the fears of his flying comrades, fell to the ground and rolled to the barway, but could go no farther. But the bull, awed by the bold front and flashing eyes of the man of pluck, muscle and rail, ceased his frightful demonstrations, and became placid as a lamb, and the whole party, to their infinite joy, came off without a scratch.

Jeff. Davis and the Vermont People.

Jeff. Davis visited Stanstead last week, and was the guest of Hon. T. Terrill. Fred. Terrill, Esq., brought him from Sherbrooke, in a very quiet manner, professedly to see the country and to consult in regard to an investment in the gold mines at Hatley. On Thursday, as we learn from the Newport (Vt.) Express, Mr. Terrill, in his best turnout, took Davis about the village to ride, when several incidents transpired not altogether pleasing to either the host or his guest. Not only boys but men hooted at him in the street, and greeted him with those familiar words, "We'll hang Jeff. Davis to a sour apple tree." He was frequently asked where he had left his "petticoats," and various little remarks more suggestive than pleasing, everywhere fell upon his ear. One lady, stung by the recollection and death of a near relative at Andersonville, gave utterance to her feelings by hurling a stone at him. Permission was asked that Jeff. might ride about the grounds of Carlos Pierce, Esq., and take a look at his noted herds, but the request was emphatically denied by Mr. H. Pierce, in charge of the premises, who declared in unmistakable language, "that in no event would Jeff. Davis be admitted to those grounds."

A TALE OF WOE.

I clasped her tiny hand in mine,
I clasped her beauteous form,
I vowed to shield her from the wind,
And from the world's cold storm.
She set her beauteous eyes on me,
The tears did wildly flow,
And with her little lips she said,
"Confound you! let me go." Where?

CONVINCING.
FULTON, OSWEGO CO., July, 1866.
MESSRS. HOSTETTER & SMITH—Gentlemen: I have been severely afflicted with paralysis of the stomach, and even given up by several eminent physicians. I have tried remedies of a tonic and stimulating nature, but without any good result. Some three or four months ago I was induced to try your STOMACH BITTERS, and have used about seven or eight bottles with a decided benefit. My health is greatly improved; and I consider your BITTERS the only efficacious remedy of their kind in the market. If used as directed they will always prove a sovereign remedy to those afflicted with dyspepsia or other diseases of a like nature.
Respectfully yours, LYMAN MUDGE.
HASTINGS, Dakota Co., Minn., Aug., 1866.
MESSRS. HOSTETTER & SMITH, Pittsburgh.—Gentlemen: Have sold your BITTERS ever since they were brought out, and consider them the best among the many before the public. Those brought out since the tax has been imposed on spirits are trash. I never recommend them.
Respectfully and truly yours,
H. J. MARVIN.
COLO., St. Joseph Co., Mich., July 31, 1866.
MESSRS. HOSTETTER & SMITH—Gentlemen: I consider your BITTERS a sovereign balm for a thousand ills. Yours, truly,

CURE OF FISTULA.
DR. KEYSER: I write to thank you for your kindness and scientific management of my disease, for which I called to consult you some time in January last. You will remember that I had a complication of diseases, which finally ended in a terrible fistula, which I had been advised to "let alone" on account of a harassing cough, which it was feared might fasten on my lungs. I knew that the popular mode of treating diseases like mine was by a cutting operation, which, if successful at all, would naturally throw the disease upon the lungs or some other vital organ, on account of the suddenness of the cure and the immediate check to a discharge which I was constrained to believe was a salutary provision of Nature to get rid of some morbid condition in the system. I feel perfectly satisfied that your method of treatment, purifying to the system, and local applications to the fistulous part, must cure, if anything could, without cutting, which I find it did, and I am happy to report myself well in every particular, with sounder and better health than I have had for years. I would also add that the applications you made were almost painless, and have left me a new man, with all the energies and vigor of restored health.
Yours, gratefully, J— C—.
Dr. Keyser's consultation rooms are No. 120 Penn street, from 9 A. M. until 4 P. M.

CAPE MAY,
CAPE ISLAND.
Since the close of 1866 much enterprise has been displayed at this celebrated sea-shore resort. New and magnificent cottages have been erected; the Hotels have been remodeled; a fine park, with a well made one mile drive, has been inaugurated; and in all the essentials of a popular summer resort, a spirit of improvement is largely manifested.
The geographical position of Cape Island is in itself a popular feature, when properly understood—situated at the extreme southern portion of the State, and occupying a neck of land at the confluence of the Delaware Bay with the Atlantic Ocean, it becomes entirely surrounded by salt water, hence favored by continual breezes from the sea.
The bluff furnishes a beautiful view of the Ocean, Delaware Bay, and picturesque back country, taking in Cape Henlopen distinctly at a distance of sixteen miles. The beach is acknowledged to surpass any other point upon the Atlantic coast, being of a smooth, compact sand which declines so gently to the surf that even a child can bathe with security.
Added to these attractions is the fact that the effect of the Gulf stream upon this point renders the water comparatively warm—a point not to be overlooked by persons seeking health in ocean bathing.
The distance from Philadelphia to Cape Island is 81 miles by rail, and about the same distance by steamer down the Bay, and by either route the facilities for travel promise to be of the most satisfactory character. The Island has Hotel and Boarding-house accommodations for about ten thousand persons. The leading Hotels are the Columbia House, with GEORGE J. BOLTON as proprietor; Congress Hall, with J. F. CAKE as proprietor, and United States, with WEST & MILLER as proprietors, all under the management of gentlemen who have well established reputations as hotel men.

Messrs. Burke & Barnes, Pittsburgh, Pa.
GENTLEMEN—We ship you, to-day, by railroad, a safe of your make, for a few repairs. The safe went through the disastrous fire that occurred here on the 6th of March last, burning our store and warehouse, and we are glad to inform you that the papers taken out of the safe after the fire were not harmed in the least. We did not suppose any safe, especially so small a size, could possibly stand such a fire, and when we discovered the papers all safe and sound, we were agreeably disappointed. We will give you an order for a large size safe when we get into our new store. Truly yours,

The Pittsburgh Gazette

County Prison Sensation—Alleged Inhuman Treatment—Death of a Child the Result.

Ordinarily, when anything out of the usual order of things transpires, affording opportunity for a sensation, it is seized upon as rich food by those prone to animadvert upon the misfortune or misdoings of others. Salient points are elaborated, more or less discretion being exercised to detract from the individual recounting the story responsibility for the truth thereof. Newspaper reporters generally seize upon sensations, or make them, with the same avidity with which they are received by a class of the community, (a very large one) and are just as free to spoil a sensation after it has served its purpose. That reporters in some instances are responsible in a great measure for injury and wrong inflicted to the feelings or the character of persons made subjects of criticism or of obloquy, we will not deny, but that this is the result of design or malice, as a general thing, we maintain is not the case, and it not unfrequently happens that the reporter unwittingly injures persons of whom he has no knowledge though the deception of persons in whom he may have reposed confidence, and who, it may turn out, were actuated by improper motives.

Without further generalizing, we will refer to a matter which transpired in Court on Saturday, duly appreciating the opportunity we have of giving both sides of the story: Casper Schaedel and wife, Germans, reside in East Birmingham, and some two weeks or more since they were committed to prison by Mayor McCarthy in default of bail for surety of the peace, on complaint of August Ammon, Esq., Justice of the Peace of East Birmingham. Schaedel was in the army as a drafted man, improperly as he claims, and since his discharge and return he has, on frequent occasions, always while under the influence of liquor, spoke of the great injustice which had been practiced in forcing him into the army, and the trouble caused to his family during his absence. Attributing to Justice Ammon a share of the responsibility for his grievances, Schaedel has threatened to inflict violence, going to the extent in his excitement to threaten murder. Mrs. Schaedel encouraged her husband in these demonstrations, which were so frequent that Mr. Ammon, in actual fear that the attempt might be made to execute the threats, thought it prudent to make complaint in the matter. And thus it came that Schaedel and his wife, failing to produce the required security, were incarcerated. On Saturday week Mr. Ammon appeared in Court and made known his desire that they should be released. It seems, however, nothing was done in the matter. Michael Lipp, Esq., Justice of the Peace of Birmingham, became interested in the case, and in his view, from first to last, the Schaedels have been victims of most outrageous injustice. Justice Lipp desired to make a statement, but was not allowed, as doubtless what he had to say would have been a repitition of the magnified imaginings of those for whom he was interested.

The Schaedels were brought into Court on Saturday, and it being understood Mrs. Schaedel had complaint to make against the prison authorities for alleged inhuman treatment of herself and infant child, she was allowed to make a statement through an interpreter, as she spoke imperfect English. She said she was committed to jail with her infant, between seven and eight months old; that her infant was taken sick, and that the prison fare, bread and water, with occasional soup, was not sufficient to enable her to give sustenance; that she called, in the night, whilst her child was very sick, for light, without obtaining any response; that finally, the Deputy Warden, Mr. Smith, came, asked her what she wanted, called her a "bitch," said he would put her in the "straw cell" for making a noise, and struck her; that her child grew worse, and that she asked that the Doctor be sent for; that the Doctor finally came, and said it was "all up with the child;" that she desired a minister to be sent for to baptize the child; that the Doctor and the Deputy Warden said that was not necessary, and asked her what religion she was; that the preacher came, however, and baptized the child; that the child died in the prison on the 27th ult. Her statement left the impression that, in her opinion at least, the child died through neglect.

Further statements were made about the troubles of the Schaedel family, but the Court said they could not be taken into consideration, at least in connection with the complaint against the prison authorities. The statement of Mrs. Schaedel, just heard, would be taken into consideration. It appeared from it that the treatment received by the complainant was cruel and inhuman; but opportunity would be given the Warden to answer the complaint. The prisoners, Schaedel and wife, were released upon their own recognizances, having promised to give no further annoyance to Justice Ammon.

Neither the Warden, W. J. White, nor his Deputy, Wm. Smith, were in Court, and it seemed they had no notice of the proceeding. Subsequently we saw Mr. Smith at the prison, and upon informing him of what Mrs. Schaedel had stated, he told us quite a different story. The child, he says, was sick when it came with the mother to prison, and received attention from the Jail Physician, Dr. A. G. McCandless. Mr. Smith was absent for some time from the city, during Mrs. Schaedel's incarceration, but we were informed that Mrs. White, the Warden's wife, had prepared food in the night time for the sick infant. In regard to striking Mrs. S., the Deputy Warden admits the fact. He says that on the occasion of her loud and repeated rapping he went to her cell. Upon the door being opened she said she wanted a candle, and was told she could have obtained it without making so much ado. At this remark she became enraged, and calling Mr. Smith a "s— of a b—," seized a bucket and endeavored to strike him. After warding off the intended blow, she dropped the bucket, and seized hold of Smith, and it was then that he slapped her in the face, or rather pushed her away from him. According to Smith's statement Mrs. Schaedel is a woman of very violent temperament, and was the cause of great annoyance in the prison.

If the child was under the care of the Jail Physician, it is fair to presume that he knew of its condition, and this knowledge would render it a matter of duty with him to see that it received proper attention. Death resulted, we understand, from "summer complaint," and thus afflicted the prison was not a proper place for it, and prison fare not sufficient for its sustenance. None should know this better than the Physician, and his recommendation in such matters always are promptly acted upon by the Court.

In advance of further investigation, we do not desire to convey the idea that there is no ground for the complaint of Mrs. Schaedel; but we cannot avoid expressing the opinion that from our knowledge of the prison authorities, and from their management heretofore, the charge of cruel and inhuman treatment will not be sustained upon investigation before the Prison Board.

Citizens Passenger Railway.

The Citizens Passenger Railway is one of the most flourishing enterprises in our city, and its present success is mainly due to the excellent management it has been under since the organization of the Company. During a visit to Lawrenceville, a few days since, we were shown through the stables of the Company at that place, and picked up a few statistics in regard to the business done on the line, which may be of interest to our readers.

The company are running at present eighteen cars from St. Clair street to Lawrenceville and two from Lawrenceville to Sharpsburgh. Each car makes regularly nine round trips per day on the former route, which, being three miles and a quarter in length, makes a distance of fifty-eight and a half miles daily for each car. To run these twenty cars it requires twenty conductors, twenty drivers, and one hundred and twenty horses. The first car leaves Lawrenceville at precisely five o'clock in the morning, and is followed by one every fifteen minutes thereafter, until ten o'clock at night. It requires forty minutes to make the trip from the stables in Lawrenceville to the station on Penn street, a distance of three and a quarter miles. The average receipts of each car are twenty-five dollars per day, a total average of five hundred dollars daily, which, at six cents each, would require them to carry 8,333⅓ passengers. The main stable, situated on Butler street, Lawrenceville, is a brick building one hundred and fifty feet square, with stalls for one hundred and seventy horses, and a double track for cars, running the full depth of the building at the east end. In the rear of this is the feed house, which is also of brick, one hundred and fifty feet long by fifty wide, the basement of which is arranged as a stable and will accomodate sixty head of horse. On the second floor is the feed grinding apparatus, cutters, &c., and in the basement is the engine by which the water is supplied from a well, and which also runs the straw cutter. These buildings are separated by an alley twenty feet wide, over which bridges extend from one to the other. There are in the stables at present one hundred and fifty five head of horses, which cost on an average one hundred and fifty dollars each, and there are employed in the stables, independent of drivers, twenty-five men. The cost of the buildings above described was forty-five thousand dollars. In addition to the stables the company have an extensive car house and passenger depot, which is situated further east on the same street. A great improvement on the days of omnibuses.

Innocent Amusement.

We heard of a little piece of "fun" on Saturday night, which we have no desire to engage in, for various reasons, and much less desire to have any one who does engage in it make us the subject of their joke. A gentleman was quietly and peaceably passing along High street, Saturday evening, when he was met by W. H. Lucas, who deliberately knocked him down. Lucas was arrested and taken to the lockup by officer Jolly, who happened to be near and saw the occurrence, and when asked at the hearing yesterday morning why he did it, he replied that he did it for fun. The Mayor thought such jokes too good to be enjoyed for nothing, and charged Mr. Lucas five dollars and costs for his fun. We don't want any of it at that rate.

The Lancaster (Penn.) Eagle describes the natural bridge, twelve miles south of that place, showing it to be nearly as great a curiosity as the world-famed natural bridge of Virginia. The bridge is of solid sand-stone, one hundred and fifty feet in length, and from eight to twenty wide, spanning a ravine at an elevation of forty-five feet from the bottom. It is level on the top and arched below, with a curvature of thirty degrees. The Eagle says that persons who have visited both pronounce this bridge equally a wonder, except in size, with its celebrated Virginia rival.

Brick Side Walks.

It is generally conceded that brick side walks are a nuisance, and the citizens of Pittsburgh have been looking long and anxiously for the day to arrive when they would, in this city at least, be "numbered among the things that were;" but notwithstanding they have been discarded in many other cities, where the facilities for procuring the flagstone fall far short of ours, we are doomed to wait on and "tramp bricks," with scarcely a hope of being relieved of the nuisance. We have made no calculation as to the comparative cost of brick and flag sidewalks, but are confident that the difference is not sufficiently great to compensate for the inconvenience and uncomfortableness of the former. A good flagstone pavement, properly put down, will last for ages and needs no repairing, while a brick sidewalk is a nuisance from the day it is put down until it is taken up, and constantly needs repairing to keep in a passable condition. There is no city in the Union, that has the facilities that we have for obtaining the flagstone, that has as great a proportion of brick pavement as Pittsburgh. Why this is we are unable to say, unless it is to be attributed to a spirit of penuriousness. There are a number of sidewalks in the city at present that would be improved by shovelling the brick into the street, and among them is that on the east side of Smithfield street, from Fifth to Diamond, which is in a miserable condition, and should be attended to at once.

TWO TABLE-SPOONFULS of the Extract of Sarsaparilla, added to a pint of water, is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoctions as usually made.

AN INTERESTING LETTER is published in the Medico-Chirurgical Review, on the subject of the Extract of Sarsaparilla in certain affections, by Benjamin Travers, F. R. S., &c. Speaking of those diseases, and diseases arising from the excess of mercury, he states that no remedy is equal to the Extract of Sarsaparilla; its power is extraordinary, more so than any other drug I am acquainted with. It is, in the strictest sense, a tonic with this invaluable attribute, that it is applicable to a state of the system so sunken, and yet so irritable as renders other substances of the tonic class unavailable or injurious.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
SATURDAY, August 3, 1867. }

The New York stock quotations to-day, as received by Mr. P. R. Mertz, were as follows: Gold, 140⅛; Eighty-one bonds, 110⅝; Five Twenties, 1862, 112; Five Twenties, 1864, 109⅝; Five Twenties, 1865, 110; Consols, 108⅜@108½; Seven Thirties, 107⅛@107¼; Ten Forties, 102⅝. Stocks—Erie Railroad, 70; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 92; Chicago and Rock Island, 101; Chicago and Northwestern, 43; Chicago and Northwestern preferred, 69½; Fort Wayne Railroad, 105; Michigan Southern Railroad, 78¼; New York Central, 103⅜; Reading, 104⅝; Western Union Telegraph Company, 47¼. Mining shares—Corydon, 1,30; Quartz Hill, 2,15; Gregory, 6,95; Smith & Parmalee, 6,00.

The stock market opened very dull this morning, and gradually declined towards noon, but at 3 p. m. the market broke, and Erie sold from 77 down to 70; North Western from 46 to 43; prefered from 71½ to 69½. All the speculative shares were hammered down, and it is likely that the bear party will be successful. Nearly all the older houses and operators have withdrawn since the last rise, and the "bull" element existing in the street is not powerful enough to resist the bears who have filled their pockets from last October until June.

Governments were likewise dull, with light sales; most of the dealers have but light stocks on hand, and calculate that before the 15th of this mounth a large amount of Seven Thirties will have to be thrown on the market; also, business is reviving, and merchants who have held governments as a temporary investment will have to dispose of them to use the money in their regular business. At any other moment this sudden break in the stock market would break down the high premium on gold; but now it is likely to exist a contrary influence, since the stock held for speculation is quite light, and nearly all the gold available is in the coffers of the government.

The mining board is quiet and prices are unchanged. Exchange is now in favor of the west, and a remarkable scarcity of the bankable funds is experienced in the middle and western States preparatory to moving the crops.

—F. W. Patterson, a prominent merchant of Buffalo, absconded on Thursday with $10,000, the proceeds of eleven boat loads of corn. He was arrested in the afternoon, and most of the money recovered.

—A late New York paper says: On the 26th ult., thirty-three vessels were loading in Philadelphia with petroleum, and ten in New York. About sixty per cent. of the whole product of the country, it is estimated, finds its way to market through Philadelphia. The exports from January to July 20th amounted to 13,961,136 gallons—an increase of more than 3,000,000 gallons over the corresponding months of the past year. The vessels now loading will carry about 8,000,000 gallons. The petroleum warehouses and docks in Philadelphia are very extensive.

—The Philadelphia Ledger says: There is no scarcity of money; but the movement for the last two days shows how sensitive credit is, and should induce care and caution by both banks and individuals not to venture their means far beyond immediate reach. Preparations have already commenced to help forward with western produce. Some large accommodations have been made here and at New York to the wool dealers, and before the end of the present month larger sums will have to be advanced to dealers in breadstuffs. While this need not necessarily create stringency in the money market, the fact that the amount required for these purposes is unknown, will keep the market unsettled and more or less excited.

—The New York Herald, and several other journals of that stripe, are trying to make a great deal of capital against the National Bank interests, through the recent failures and embezzlements. The Herald is not satisfied with distorting the facts regarding the Nationals, but makes out a list of the failures, and incorporates there in, as a national institution, the Weedsport Bank, which was, as every banker knows, a State institution. Will those journals so hostile to the National Banks please remember that no system of banking so far invented has been able to prevent banks from being robbed by speculating cashiers or defaulting tellers. The Bank of England might be compelled to wind up by the very means which have obliged all the National institutions that have failed to close their doors. Under the old system of banking the bill holders pocketed a loss as well as the depositor, for whose security no law can be framed. Now, the former is protected, and anomalous as it seems, the bill of a broken National Bank is worth a premium of 1@2 per cent. As long as bank bills will be issued, having as security for redemption certificates to indebtedness, there is no question in the superiority of the National system over all others.—Chicago Tribune.

—The Titusville Herald has the following on the petroleum business: "Few people are aware of the great amount of oil which has been marketed—the addition which it has made not only to the wealth but to the business of the country. During the year 1863 the production was nearly 4,000,000 barrels, equal to about 2,500,000 barrels of refined oil; of this amount over 1,600,000 barrels were exported. These are large figures, indicating an immense business; and if we care to estimate the business which this oil creates—the amount of transportation by rail, the additions to our commerce, the thousands of hands and the millions of capital engaged in refining it, we shall not write down the entire region as humbug. But a very small per centage of those who were made so wealthy by the excitement of it have retained their wealth. From one cause and another—by speculation or drink, or gambling, or broken banks—the greater part are about where they begin; many, indeed, far worse. Suits almost without number have been brought for the recovery of moneys fraudulently obtained, and the only thing that prevents the commencement of others is the disagreeable certainty that the plaintiff would pay the costs. Many companies have allowed their lands to be sold for taxes, seemingly resolved to spend no more in this country. It seems certainly foolish to see property sacrificed in this manner, as there is no knowing where the next bait of oil will be discovered. Localities of production are constantly changing, and the farm abandoned to its fate to-day may be the land of promise to-morrow."

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
SATURDAY, August 3, 1867. }

The general market have been rather dull during the past week, and there is but little prospect at present of any immediate improvement. The operations have been on a small scale, there being no speculative demand, and as the impression prevails, and with good reason, too, that prices must go still lower, both consumers and dealers are endeavoring by every possible means to keep their stocks down to the lowest possible limit, and it is this, mor than anything else, that is retarding and restricting business.

GRAIN—Wheat, in the absence of sales, may be quoted at $2,15@2,20 for prime Penna. and Ohio Winter Red. Oats dull and too irregular to quote correctly; 70c seems to be about all buyers will give for old, on track, while new have not been thrown on the market as yet. Corn is coming in more freely, but there is no quotable change in prices—98c@$1 for prime Yellow. Rye is quiet and nominal at $1.30. Nothing doing in Barley.

FLOUR—The demand has been falling off gradually throughout the past week, but as yet prices have not declined sufficiently to correspond with those of Chicago. The best Spring Wheat brands can be bought and sold here for $11,40@11,50, while dealers generally, are asking $11.75 and even $12. New Winter Wheat Flour is being sold at about the same price as choice Spring Wheat brands. Fancy Flour, $15@16. Rye Flour scarce and in demand.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is quiet but steady, with regular jobbing sales at 13@13½c for Shoulders; 15@16c for Ribbed and Clear Sides, and 21@21½c for Sugar Cured Hams. Lard is dull but firm at 13@13½c for prime kettle rendered, in tierces. Mess Pork is dull and nominal at $25@25,50.

POTATOES—There has been a little panic in the Potatoe market during the past day or two, and compared with the early part of the week, prices have declined from $2@2 50 per bbl. To-day they were being sold in small lots in store at $2—a twenty or thirty barrel lot would doubtless have been bought at $1,50.

GREEN APPLES—Are coming in freely, but with a continued good demand, prices are well maintained, ranging from $3@5 per bbl, for common to prime, and $6 for choice.

DRIED FRUIT—One firm reports having made a sale of 20,000 lbs Apples at 5—bought, doubtless, on speculation. Peaches are selling in small lots, at 8@10c for quarters and halves.

EGGS—The demand was rather better to-day, and fresh packed may be quoted steady at 18c.

BUTTER—Is dull but without quotable change; small sales of prime fresh, pail and firkin Butter at 15@16c.

CHEESE—Is steady, with regular sales at 12@15c, according to quality.

HAY—Is quiet and unchanged; sales of new at scales at $16@20 per ton.

OIL—Lard Oil is steady at 85c for No. No. 2, and $1,05 for No. 1.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
SATURDAY, August 3, 1866. }

CRUDE—The market was again dull and "offish" to-day, though compared with Friday, prices have undergone no quotable change. Compared with the early part of the week, however, prices have declined materially, say 1@1½c per gallon. To illustrate, sales were made yesterday at 10@10½c, to be delivered on first water, while in the early part of the week, the market was considered strong for same delivery at 11@11½c, and even 12c. Spot oil has declined from 12@12½c to 11@11½c. To-day, however, there were offers to buy at 10½c for "first water," which would indicate for the time being at least, that the market has touched bottom in the estimation of some; otherwise, they would not offer to buy at 10½c, if, in their opinion, there was a probability of it going still lower. There was but a single sale reported to-day, three thousand barrels barrels to be delivered during the last four months of 1867, buyer's option, at 10½c. Both the New York and Philadelphia markets were reported in a very sickly condition to-day, but by no means beyond recovery; and it would not be surprising to see another improvement before this month is out. These little "bull" and "bear" movements are quite natural, especially at this season of the year, and if we can judge the future by the past, the market between July and January is not likely to remain any one way very long at a time.

REFINED—The market for bonded oil was also dull and weak to-day, and compared with yesterday and the day before, prices have declined materially. We can report sales of 1000 bbls for August delivery in Philadelphia, at 30c; two 1 00 barrel lots for same month at 29¾c and 500 bbls prime light straw to white, on spot at 27—delivered in Philadelphia. Later in the day it was reported that there were offers to sell for August at 29c, which, if correct, shows a decline of four cents per gallon within the past three days. For September and October, there were no operations, though we heard of an offer to sell for the last four months at 32c, without finding takers. The week opened with the market decidedly in favor of the "bulls" but closed with the "bears" in the ascendancy.

ARRIVALS—The following arrivals of oil were reported to-day:

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, August 3.—Cotton was a shade firmer and more active; sales of 2,500 bales at 28½c for middling uplands. Flour 25@50c lower and ruled in favor of buyers; sales of 5,700 bbls at $6,25@7.40 for superfine state and western; $7,75@9,50 for extra western; $10@11,80 for choice do; $9,15@10,00 for shipping Ohio; $10,10@12,00 for trade brands; $8@$10,50 for spring St. Louis and $10@16,50 for winter do. California flour unchanged; sales at $13,50. Rye flour steady; sales of 200 barrels. Whisky quiet; $2,35@2,37 in bonds. RIVER NEWS.

A Louisville telegram, under date of August 1st, has the following: There is 3 feet in the canal, and 12 inches down Indian chute, and 35 inches on Portland bar. The Morning Star was unable to get to Portland yesterday, and discharged and received freight here. The Leonora No. 2, which passed up about noon, had to lighten over Portland bar. The first boat load of stone for the Ohio river bridge arrived yesterday, and the ceremony of laying the first stone of the abutment on Corn Island takes place at 3 o'clock this afternoon. It is reported that orders have been received from the War Department appointing Gen. Weitzel to superintend the survey for the improvements in the Tennessee river authorized by Congress.

We mentioned a few days ago that the Great Republic, Continental and towboat Yankee, had left there with the intention of a trial of speed to New Orleans. The result was, that the Continental reached there about two hours ahead of the towboat, and the Great Republic fifteen hours behind both. The towboat was aground eight hours on the trip, and left here two hours behind the Continental, considering which she did well, and with deducting the time she was aground, made the best run by several hours.

The above, which we clip from the St. Louis Dispatch, we have no doubt, is false so far as the Great Republic is concerned. The Republic, as the reporter of that paper well knows, made the fastest time between New Orleans and St. Louis that has been made this season, not even excepting the brag run of the Ruth.

SINKING OF THE MARY ERWIN.—Captain Wolf received intelligence yesterday morning of the sinking of the Mary Erwin at Rising Sun the day previous. From later information we learn that that she was making her way over the bar, and struck the wreck of a coal boat when near the head of it, and sunk. She was lying across the wreck, and there was some danger of her breaking in the middle. Captain Wolfe left with the Champion yesterday morning to go to her assistance. She was on her return trip from the Tennessee river, in charge of Captain Coffin. The boat was owned exclusively by Captain Wolfe, of this city. She was insured for $15,000, in the following city offices: Union, Central, American and Lafayette, for $3,000 each, and in the Ohio Valley and Tobacco for $1,500 each.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The steamer Gerard B. Allen, reported sunk in the Missouri river on Thursday, has been raised and is on her way to St. Louis. She sustained but little damage. The amount of insurance upon her in Cincinnati was $10,000, the Enterprise and Central having $5,000 each.

The Cincinnati Gazette says: The Charmer was towed down to the wharf yesterday, and will receive freight this morning for Memphis and way points. She has just been put in the most complete order, and is in charge of Capt. Lew Vandergrift, a reliable man. She will leave here to-morrow, whether she receives freight or not, as her engagements below will not permit her to remain at the wharf longer.

An exchange has the following in reference to a paragraph which was copied into our paper:

A paragraph is going the rounds to the effect that for the first time a steamboat has navigated Black river to Popular Bluffs, in Butler county. We have better information than that. In 1861, Captain John A. Williams having been awarded a contract by Butler county, took up Black river a steamer he built for the purpose, called the Daniel B. Miller, and cleared the river of logs, drift and overhanging trees, from the Arkansas line away into Missouri at the bridge at Popular Bluffs, a distance of sixty miles. Williams and the Miller were engaged in this business for a period of six months, during which the boat was often at the bridge, and he has never been paid for his services. He has a suit pending against the county for $30,000 and interest, and he hopes he will gain it. The boat that recently went to popular Bluffs is the Wren, a screw propeller, and it was there two years before the Miller was in the Black river at all—commanded by Captain Robert Glasscock, now residing in Arkansas. But for the bridge, a boat of medium draft could frequently navigate Black river for an additional distance of fifty miles into the State. Capt. Williams continued operating with his boat on Black river until the booming of a cannon disturbed the solitude of the situation. He knew then, if not before, that there was war. The Miller was of 280 tons capacity; the Wren is about 50 tons.

A St. Louis dispatch of the same date says: An arrival reports the Illinois falling rapidly, with only 42 inches water at Lick Creek and Bardstown. The steamer City of Pekin has consequently laid up. Very heavy cargoes are arriving from and leaving for the Missouri. The upper Mississippi boats are fully employed. There is a fair cargo here for the Ohio, and no boats to take it. Capt. Ira Malin will command the Harry Johnston in the Quincy trade in opposition to the new packet, Tom Jasper. Captain John W. Malin will take command of the Julia.

The Cincinnati Commercial, of Friday, has the following: Captain D. Z. Sedam is in the city. Mr. Frank J. Donnally, of the Pine Grove, has gone on a pleasure excursion to Davenport, Iowa. Capt. Alf. Stein has returned to the city after a delightful trip of two weeks around Rock Island. Capt. J. B. Conway left for Pittsburgh in last night's train. The Harry Dean is reported hard aground at Buffington. Capt. John B. Anawalt left for Pittsburgh last night. Capt. Frank J. Oakes' new steamer Monarch will be launched from Mack's Mills to-morrow.
